

Dr. Harish Chaudhry

Assistant Professor | Indian Institute of Technology (IIT), Delhi

Biography

Dr. Harish Chaudhry did his schooling from The Doon School, Dehradun, B-Tech in Chemical Engineering from IIT Kanpur, PGDM in Marketing / Behavioral Sciences from IIM, Bangalore and a PhD from IIT Delhi. He has worked in companies like Dunlop India Ltd., NIIT and RAAG Systems before joining academics as a faculty with the Department of Management Studies, IIT Delhi. As an outstanding teacher and learner, Harish Chaudhry has done certification course in TQM/ISO9000 and is a certified Lead Assessor by RWTUV, Germany. He also attended a course in ERP conducted by Baan Systems, Holland, besides many other training programmes.

He has also taught full courses in Marketing and related disciplines at IIM Lucknow, IIM Kozhikode and other Management Institutions. Dr. Chaudhry has conducted more than 100 training programmes in areas such as expert systems, marketing and sales, behavioral sciences and technology management. He has been a trainer for organizations like Godfrey Philips, Coke, ITC, Network Ltd., PCL, IRCON, RITES and STC. He has served as a consultant for number of organizations such as Modi Rubber Ltd., Godfrey Philips, BPL, Dynamic Fashions, Personal Point and Plan International.

Abstract on the Topic of the Presentation

Future of Virtual Classrooms

The session will look at the issues and difficulties in implementing virtual classrooms for teaching-learning process. Virtual classroom has many advantages and lot many challenges at the same time. Virtual classrooms can address a large number of students simultaneously and variety of courses can be made available to them, reaching out to students in different locations at the same time.

However, there are technical issues and implementation issues around it. Session will look into different approaches to implementing virtual classrooms; addressing various challenges that arise/may arise in it.